A Message from ISAZ President - Nancy Gee

Dear ISAZ Members,

The excitement is building for our ISAZ 2025 conference in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada! If you haven't already registered, don't miss out on the early bird rates which are available until May 15. The conference planning committee has put together a wonderful slate of keynote speakers and social gatherings and you certainly won't want to miss seeing all the presentations and posters covering the most recent research in our field.

The ISAZ Board continues to volunteer their time to the benefit of ISAZ. For example, our Secretary for Development, Leslie Stewart, and her team continue to seek sponsors for the conference. If you know of any individuals or businesses that may be interested in sponsoring our conference please reach out to Leslie (development@ISAZ.net) to let her know. Other examples include the Awards Committee – actively finalizing the awards to be presented at the upcoming conference, and the Communications Committee – finalizing our new Press Policy. These are just some of the things our board members have been working on.

Voting ISAZ Members (Individual, Life, and Corporate Lead Members) should have received a link to vote for new and returning Board members. Please be sure to vote and also consider running for the Board in the future. It's a wonderful opportunity to connect with other ISAZ members and to be a part of shaping ISAZ's future.

I hope to see you all in person at ISAZ 2025 in June 19-22!

Sincerely,

Nancy R. Gee, ISAZ President

Call for Reviewers

Anthrozoös – Call for reviewers

We are keen to grow our list of reviewers. If you are interested in reviewing for the Journal, please send an email to ISAZ Administrative Manager Abbey Thigpen (adm.manager@isaz.net) and provide the following information:

1. Contact details
2. Type of research you can review (quantitative, qualitative, mixed methods)
3. Your discipline(s) (e.g., anthropology, history, media studies, medicine, psychology, veterinary science)
4. Analytic techniques you are familiar with (e.g., multivariate analyses, nonparametric analyses, thematic analysis, content analysis, systematic review, meta-analysis)
5. Topics you are happy to review (e.g., cultural/cross-cultural studies, history, animal-assisted services, attitudes to animals/animal issues, personality research, animals and human health, psychometric scale development, visitor studies, farmed animal–stockperson research)

6. Types of interaction/relationship research you are interested in (e.g., human–companion animal, –farmed animal, –laboratory-housed animal, –zoo-housed animal, –wild animal). Please be specific: for example, you might want to only review human-cat relationship papers

7. Please also attach a short CV

If you are a Masters or PhD student, you are welcome to nominate yourself, but please tell your supervisor(s) and confirm that they will supervise any reviewing that you do.

ISAZ Mentorship Program

ISAZ aims to enable researchers from around the world to actively contribute their perspectives and share research findings as members of this community. We believe that sharing diverse values when considering human-animal relationships from a global perspective is essential for the future development of our society. That is precisely why we hope to provide opportunities for professional development and networking to early-career researchers through this mentor-mentee program.

We feel seriously about those researchers and graduate students who face various barriers to easy participation to the conference and for those who lack access to experts in their immediate environment.

By registering by the end of April, conference attendees to have the opportunity to connect with experts before ISAZ 2025.

We look forward to your participation both as mentors and mentees.
